

Maui Bee Conference

Keeping bees healthy in a changing environment

Hale Akua Garden Farm, Haiku, Maui
January 30-31, 2016

Saturday 9am – 5pm, Sunday 9am – 4pm.

Price per person = $235 if paid by 1/23/15
$255 after 1/23/15

$135 one-day, Saturday or Sunday only

Price includes lunch both days and optional apiary visit to Maui Queen Company on 2/1

Register at www.sunrisecenter.org

Optional presentation Saturday evening by Jim Frazier:

“Chemicals in a bee’s life: the good, the bad, and the amazing”
Presentation starting at 5:30pm followed by pupus, beverages and opportunity to socialize with speakers and other participants
$45 per person. Reserve when registering.

Speakers include:

Jim and Maryann Frazier, who were on the front-lines analyzing bee hives for pesticide residues at Penn State University ♦ Bonnie Morse, co-owner Bonnie Bee & Company ♦ Lauren Rusert, Apiary Section Chief for the Hawaii State Apiary Program ♦ Evan Ryan, Pono Grown Farm ♦ Diana Sammataro, author of “The Beekeeper’s Handbook” and retired USDA-ARS researcher ♦ Noelani Waters, Hawaii Apiary Program Staff ♦ Kirk Webster, treatment free beekeeping pioneer and owner of Champlain Valley Bees and Queens

Diverse workshop topics include:

♦ Hands on hive workshops including hive inspections, making nucs, small scale queen rearing ♦ Identifying pests and diseases ♦ Small hive beetle control ♦ Varroa mites: what you should know ♦ Beekeeping equipment ♦ Hygienic Testing ♦ Hive products ♦ Effects of fungicides ♦ Organizing local groups for support and continuing education ♦ Soapmaking ♦ Planting for pollinators ♦ Propolis products ♦ And more!